

Our presentation of the exhibition "Ana Frank Dienorastis. The Last Diary", on display in Vilnius until 10 September, includes new insights into the fascinating life of Anne Frank and her family. This is the first time that a comprehensive selection of texts by Lithuanian Esperanto authors have been presented to public in Lithuania - absolutely worth visiting! The author of many books about Jewish culture, Miriam Shaviv has translated all these texts. For more information on this exhibition please visit our website www.museum.lt. The exhibition also features a series of works by contemporary Lithuanian Jewish artists, created especially for this occasion. In the video "My Lithuanian Name" Laurynas Galadauskas tells us about his family history and what it means to be a Jew in Lithuania. "I think I have a very individual relationship with God," he says. We also meet a famous Lithuanian Jewish singer Viktoras Diawara, who has been singing since childhood and is one of the organizers of the Vilnius Jewish Music Festival (Lithuanian: Vilniaus žydų muzikos festivalis). He talks about his family experiences in Kaunas Ghetto during World War II. The video "I Still See Their Faces in My Dreams" introduces works by painters Leo Liebenberg and Boris Zabarauskas; both survived the Holocaust, but their families were not so lucky. They tell us about their art, their feelings when they paint, and how they see the world around them. The exhibition is supported by the Lithuanian Ministry of Foreign Affairs.
